LENT HAS BEGUN; SOCIETY RESTING

THE FORTY DAYS' DEVOTION TO THE CHURCH.

FOR PRAYER AND FAST

Began This Morning—Ash Wednesday

Services at Many Churches

—Lenten Period Here.

Ash Wednesday today! All the devout and penitent went to church and for forty days will forego the social gaiety.

Others will give the pillows a plump or two and settle down for an extra nap, without compensations for engagements waiting and with visions of opportunities to diet complexion back to pristine freshness.

"Lent is such a splendid chance to renew acquaintance with one's family," confided a popular matron the other day.

"And such a blissful opportunity to not have to see, to entertain, or to be polite to the people you dislike, or who have you dreadfully," chimed in her neighbor.

And with that the secret of Lenten hospitality is out. For during the season of prayer and fast, when entertaining there is principally confined to the congenial exterior which many a hostess may then unobtrusively select from her dearest, if not nearest, friends, and excuse all omitted invitations with the casual "Oh, it wasn't anybody. They all just dropped in. Of course, I wouldn't entertain—not in Lent!"

And there are always the sewing classes! Dismiss these too lightly. Our grandmothers found their weekly solace in them, for there weren't any bridge parties, nor morning musicales, but there were ever sewing societies, and tomes, as well as gracious charities and soft linens and needy sick and helpless ladies.

Ash Wednesday is the first day of Lent in the modern observance. The main reform to the penitential sackcloth and ashes, so often spoken of in the Old Testament, and also to a peculiar rite in the Roman church.

Originally the administration of the ashes was made only to public penitents. These had to appear bareheaded, and in penitential garb, before the church door on the first day of Lent. There their penances were imposed upon them. Then they were admitted to the church and brought to the altar.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE CITY OF JANESVILLE:

I take this opportunity of announcing to the voters of our city and to the public, my candidacy for the republican nomination for city attorney at the primaries to be held March 24th instant.

It is impossible for me to get around with sufficient rapidity to see all the voters and therefore deem it proper that they should know something of me and of my qualifications for the office.

I was born at Evansville, Wisconsin, in 1870, and am therefore past twenty-eight years of age. I have been a resident of the City of Janesville for the past ten years with the exception of two years and a half when I lived in Iowa, Kansas. I received my education at the Milton Junction high school and in the Wisconsin University. After leaving the university I read law in the office of Messrs. Whitehead & Matheson and was admitted to practice in all the courts of Wisconsin in the year 1902. I have since been in the active practice of the profession in the city of Iowa, Kansas, and in this city.

before the bishop, who put ashes on their heads. He addressed them a few words of exhortation, at the end of which they were solemnly excluded from the church. Gradually it became the custom for friends and relatives to manifest their humility and affection by joining the penitents, expressing a similar contrition to their outward manner, and offering their forebears for the ashes. The number of these self-condemned penitents grew in time to be so large that at last the administration of ashes was extended to the whole congregation, and the rite took its present form.

Under the Old Rule

Ash Wednesday was not always included in the Lenten period. In the fifth and sixth centuries Lent began with the succeeding Sunday, having for six weeks, which, omitting Sundays, would be thirty-six days. It is not known at what time Ash Wednesday was added to the fast, but it was certainly before 711 A. D., as a capitulary of the Church of Toulon of that date describes the Lenten usage as identical with our own. The reason for the change is readily intelligible. The addition of these four days makes the fast (omitting Sundays) exactly forty days in duration, and therefore accords with the fasts of Moses and Elias, and especially with that of our Savior.

In Protestant churches the Lenten services generally begin on Ash Wednesday, but a special service is held only in the English church. Even here, however, the use of ashes has been discontinued since shortly after the Reformation as being a "vain show," and the only memorial of the original character of the day is the reading of the curses denounced against impenitent sinners.

KICKER'S COLUMN

Kicker's Column

I wish to compliment the editor of the Gazette on his editorial in the issue of the 2d. It is timely and quite to the point. Perhaps more might be said, bearing on the same subject, that an editor of a daily published for all of the people might not feel fully justified in putting in print; and yet might not be out of place for a private citizen to utter. Perhaps I, am a little previous or unqualified, as the case might be viewed; nevertheless I view editors of journals of news, issued for the whole people, as public servants—honest and uncompromising, and in no case may I desire, and it is on that ground that I take the liberty to most heartily compliment and thank our editor for his able and timely article on the subjects of "Rods," anarchists, murderers, or whatever you may choose to call them; outlaws they are of the deepest dye. They are self-made outlaws. The world has never been cursed with any other kind. And there is one thing connected with this matter that ought to make all Americans proud; and that is the fact that almost all of such characters are imported. They are in fact the legitimate offshoots of rotten monarchies. They are the one extreme and the other extreme of the social scale, which some of our wealthy daughters are vainly trying to extinguish by taking them under their wings and brooding over them as a clucking hen might her chicks.

But as to the anarchists, "Rods," and anarchists in America, they will be properly cared for, as their deeds and records deserve. Yet it is well to let all of our public servants thoroughly understand that the people cannot stand solidly behind them in the execution of all of their duties; for such is the law, and its execution in all the states of our Union. And now I wish to say a word in regard to police, and police of emigrants here thinking to manipulate and run our institutions for us, for their experience, their education under monarchial forms of government, were not calculated to educate them so as to understand, and fully appreciate our system of free independent self-government, but if on the other hand, they wish to come here to be good, law-abiding citizens, and be people of our people, then all hail to them, with a free and hearty welcome. We as a nation have an individuality of our own, and propose to maintain it.

ANNOUNCES COST OF GROWING ONE ACRE

H. E. Holmes of Equity Society Gathers Interesting Data on Production.

"From the figures which I have gathered it has cost the farmers of Wisconsin about $20 an acre to grow tobacco during the past year," said H. E. Holmes of Milton, president of the tobacco department of the society of Equity of Wisconsin today.

"I have found in the vicinity of Port Maitland that a few dollars below that, but in Rock and Dunn counties it will run as high as $30 an acre. In a few cases I have found, where farmers had to pay $3 and $4 a day for laborers and in these instances the price of producing the crop, until it is eased, run as high as $112 an acre."

"What does this mean? Farmers cannot sell their tobacco for five and seven cents this year. Some tobacco is being sold, but generally speaking it can be sold at only the poorest grades. The good tobacco is being held for higher prices. Figures have been raised 1.25 pounds of tobacco to one acre that once in four years the farmer has a poor crop and that the farmer should make a profit of two cents a pound on the crop. It all means that the farmer must get from a shilling to 15 cents a pound for their crop, or they are losing money."

Forty Years Ago

Janesville Gazette, March 4, 1868.

The regular monthly meeting of the Hosene Hook and Ladder company will be held Thursday evening, March 5th, at 7:30 o'clock.

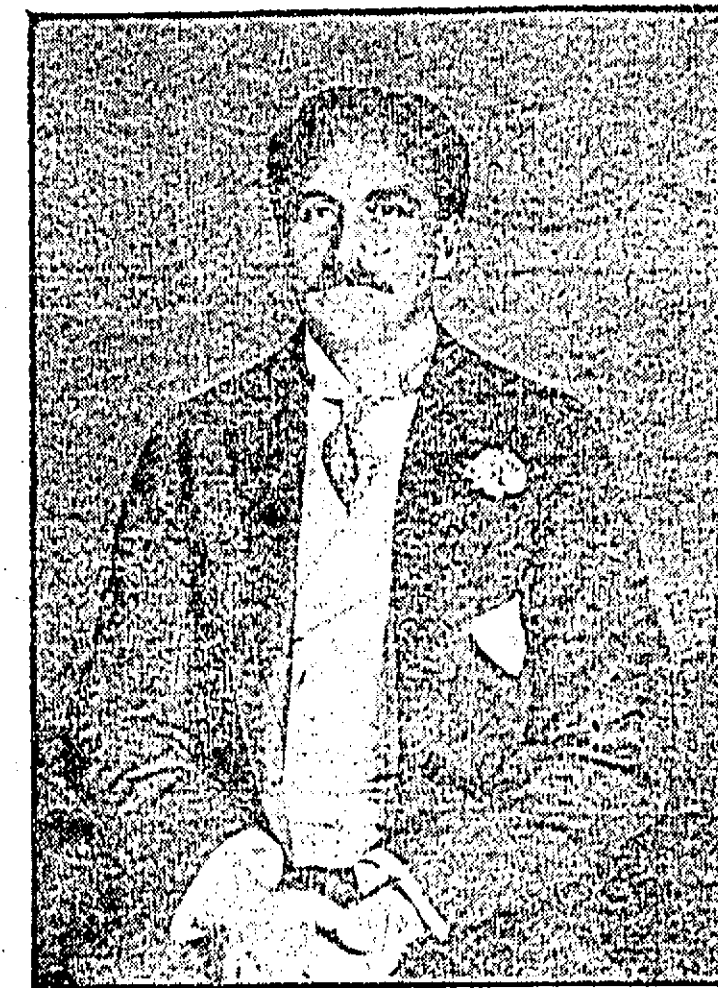

H. G. G. G. G.

New York, March 4.—A Washington special says personal feeling is developing into a proposition to elect a new President of the Senate in order that the successful issue of the impeachment trial would not result in the elevation of Wade to the Presidency.

The Senate Chair submitted a communication from Chief Justice Chase relative to rules adopted by the Senate expressing dissent from the view taken by the Senate in relation to the powers of the managers, but is willing, if necessary, to have their decision referred to a committee of the House. Impeachment managers appeared at one o'clock followed by members of the House, the latter ranging themselves outside the bar of the Senate. The speaker was invited to a seat by the side of President Wade. Blingham presented articles of impeachment, which were received.

The Senate, arrangements have been completed for receiving the managers from the House, chairs being provided for them immediately in front of the Secretary's desk. As soon as the articles of impeachment were read by the Secretary, they will be received by the Senate from the enrolled copy brought over by the latter of managers, after which the latter will retire.

The Senate has adopted its rules and is ready to proceed as soon as the House presents its articles of impeachment.

Robert Bacon of New York will in all probability succeed Elihu Root as secretary of state in case Mr. Root decides to relinquish his position within the next few months, as now seems probable. Mr. Bacon has served for some time past as assistant secretary of state and has made a most creditable record. Incidentally, he has been one of the intimates of President Roosevelt—a member of the famous "Tennis cabinet." Mr. Bacon, prior to the time President Roosevelt gave him the opportunity to enter public life, was a business partner of J. Pierpont Morgan and has thus had ample training in handling big affairs. That he takes a deep interest in the work of the state department is attested by the fact that a few months ago he had an opportunity to get the post of American ambassador to Germany, a much-sought position, but he preferred to continue his association with Mr. Root.

MORE OF WHAT DR. REA IS DOING

His Cures are proof and You Can't Get Away From Them.

That Dr. Rea is restoring the health and curing thousands of the afflicted and there is no doubt, as hundreds of reliable home people will attest, a few physicians in the country have better educational advantages than he, and few have more thoroughly improved them. He has always been an ardent student as well as an original investigator, having practiced his profession in some of the principal hospitals throughout the United States and Europe, and it is not surprising that he has become a great specialist. Soon after commencing his practice in Louisville, Ky., some twelve years ago, Dr. Rea was led to believe that the important treatment of treating both acute and chronic disease was one that was demanding unusual attention and the skill of a physician who would devote his whole study and time to that specialty. He pressed with this idea he began a series of original investigations which have resulted in many important discoveries and brought him an immense practice in the line of special practice has certainly been remarkable and in the treatment of many chronic diseases unexcelled. Dr. Rea announced to the public in Minnesota something over eight years ago that he would make a series of northwestern visits, stopping in the principal cities in the state. Since that time he has visited almost every city of importance and in the meantime has established a permanent office in Minneapolis, where he has placed some of the best physicians in his staff at his head. To prove his original assertions, he went to work and is now treating thousands of people in the state. Many are among the wealthiest and most prominent citizens. Almost everyone speaks of the immediate relief that generally attends his system of treatment. Below we will publish a few of the names of some of the many that he has cured.

Henry Nyhouse, Duluth, Minn., cured of chronic catarrh of the stomach, bad blood and general indigestion. Had doctor with a good many doctors and had taken all kinds of treatment, but no relief.

Mrs. Robt. (Karl) Emerson, Man., cured of appendicitis. Another doctor said she would have to be operated on.

Frank Hughes, Dwight, N. D., cured of cancer of the lip with two injections. This cancer had been cut out several times, but always returned.

Mrs. John Engstrom, Two Harbors, Minn., had a sick baby that many doctors said could never get well. Dr. Rea cured the child in four months.

Nick Wilson, Plum City, Wis., cured of chronic case of piles. No operation. Cured by the hypodermic injection fluid.

Geo. Kothlow, Menomonie, Wis., cured of catarrh and bronchial troubles.

E. J. Swaboda, Fergus, Minn., cured of chronic bladder and kidney troubles. Had doctor with all the noted specialists in Minneapolis and St. Paul, and as a last resort was advised to have a surgical operation; this he refused and went to Dr. Rea, who cured him in 18 days.

The voters are being organized. The campaign is being waged. The election is being fought. The result is being awaited.

men, and make a compromise? Take first choice for the favorite son and promise endorsement for Taft second? Why fly at each other's throats at every opportunity?

PEOPLE VERSUS GOVERNMENT

Even the most casual study of current legislative measures indicates widespread confusion on the question of what government is, and what its proper relations are to the people.

In a government by the people, government is the servant of the whole people, and not their master. The main business of government is to remind people, individually or collectively, of those general rules of conduct which have been authoritatively laid down and defined as necessary for people's living together under law and order.

Consequently government is organized to represent no class, no section, no interest in particular, but one and all equally and exactly. The business of government is to act as the agent of the people to the extent defined by constitution, by laws, by treaties and like permanent expressions of contractual obligations. The business of a government is largely that of an umpire in the settlement of disputes. But it is still the servant of the whole people, even in forcibly performing the duties thus devolving upon it.

There is no more mischievous mistake than to assume that government can do its work successfully without the Argus-eyed watchfulness of public spirit. There has never yet been a government that could be trusted to do its duty to carry out the commissions of its creators without gradually covering itself into the false position of assuming, intentionally or otherwise, that the people, and their interests existed primarily for the benefit of the governing. Wherever that spirit prevails, to whatever degree, even the slightest, it means that government has begun to become tyrannical and that liberty is losing its hold as the main object of government.

It appears that rich students at Yale are not getting as good marks in their studies as those who have hard work to get an education. This is true in more colleges and universities than Yale.

Kentucky needs some sort of legislation that will not conflict with the laws as they exist, but will stop this night-riding habit.

Perhaps the world will lose its taste for that dark Kentucky tobacco if it is deprived of it much longer.

A Cross Old Aunt.

Little Edith, who has a cross old aunt with whom she cannot live in peace and concord, heard a visitor tell her mother that a neighbor had shot a dog because it had grown old and cross. The young maid is sometimes quick to reason by analogy, and Edith was equal to the occasion. "Mamma," she said, after the visitor had left, "when do you think papa will shoot Aunt Edith?"

Saccharin.

Saccharin is a white crystalline compound from toluene, a constituent of coal tar. It is 300 times sweeter than cane sugar and finds use as a sweetening agent, especially for persons who cannot use sugar, owing to disease, such as diabetes. It was discovered by Ira Remond and Charles Fahlberg in the chemical laboratory of the Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore.

GUILD HITS AT ROOSEVELT
"OUT PRINCE IS RIGHT," SAYS EASTERN GOVERNOR.
Secretary is Guest of Massachusetts Republican Club—His Candidacy is Boosted.
Boston, Mar. 4.—A great audience assembled at Symphony hall Tuesday night and heard addresses by Secretary of War Taft, United States Senator Elmer J. Burkett of Nebraska, Gov. Curtis Guild and Lieut. Gov. Allen S. Draper.
All the speakers were guests of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, which held its annual dinner in the hall previous to the speechmaking.
The address of Secretary Taft followed lines similar to the one which he delivered in Kansas City several days ago. Gov. Guild announced his preference for Secretary Taft for the party nomination for president and for Lieut. Gov. Draper for governor. The governor also took occasion to deny that he had been a party to any arrangement by which he would receive the nomination for vice-president. He added that should he be so elected he would not refuse the nomination.
Discussing national affairs, Gov. Guild said: "We may not all agree, I do not, with certain methods the present president has employed. The skillful use of force and ruth is sometimes better for steady progress on a long road, than violent roveling with the spur. The great essential fact is that though in this or that detail this method may have been wrong in procedure, he has been sincerely, fearlessly and oversteeringly right in principle. His successor is to have no easy task. The four years before us are crowded with difficulties and dangers. The best brains among us are needed for the tasks we have to face. In this transition period into which we are plunged every kind of radicalism is daily suggested. The next president should have a thorough knowledge of constitutional law and the limitation of the powers of the national executive and national government. I believe that among good men, the best for us today, is the canal builder, the jurist, the diplomat, the administrator, the American whose private character is as white as his judicial ermine, William H. Taft of Ohio."
Senator Burkett, who was given a hearty reception, after which he spoke. Secretary Taft was the closing speaker.

He followed ironing for a number of years and was master mechanic of the Union Pacific railroad at Ogden, Utah, when a strike on the road was declared. Mr. Murphy studied law. He was largely instrumental in securing the passage of the eight-hour law in Utah.
Subsequently Mr. Murphy came to this city and became prominent at the bar.

LLOYD IN ACCUSER'S ROLE

Missouri Representative Makes Strong Assertion on Floor of Lower Congressional Branch—Grain Men Protest.

Washington, Mar. 4.—The charge that the government has robbed of over $70,000,000 since 1880 by railroads carrying the mails, was made on the floor of the house of representatives Tuesday by Mr. Lloyd (Mo.).

He referred to the new system of weighing the mails recently introduced by the postmaster general and declared that it was an admission that the post office department had allowed the people of the country to be mulcted out of the sum stated. He demanded to know why suits had not been instituted against the railroads to recover this money.

Grain Heads in Protest.

Representatives of various chambers of commerce and grain-handling associations appeared Tuesday before the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce to oppose the passage of bills providing for a uniform classification of grain and for export inspection by the federal government. Among the organizations represented were the Boston chamber of commerce, the commercial exchange of Philadelphia and the corn exchange of the chamber of commerce of Buffalo as well as individual Baltimore grain exporters.

Gronna Favors Bill.

Mr. Gronna of North Dakota spoke in favor of the bill. He said the grain growers of the west have little complaint to make against the local elevator men, but they suffered heavy loss from lack of a uniform system of classification, backed by federal inspection, which would guarantee fair grading of grains at terminal or export points within the United States. Mr. Gronna received letters and resolutions from the London Corn Trade association and continental and internal grain boards, and committees to the effect that American grain is being widely discriminated against by European buyers on account of lack of a uniform and dependable system of grading.

Margaret Carnegie Help To The Carnegie Millions.

Little 10-year-old Margaret Carnegie is one of the richest girls in America today and if her father should die without a will he would leave a great part of his immense wealth to charity and education. When Margaret was 8 years old her father gave her a birthday gift the massive palace at the corner of Fifth avenue, between Ninety and Ninety first streets, a fortune of more than $1,000,000. Margaret is today a strong, healthy child and has inherited a generous disposition from her parents.

The surest asset that any concern can have is advertised prestige. Its banks may fail, its officers may die, its property may be destroyed by fire; but you simply cannot touch its "good will," because that is engrained in the minds of millions of people.—From an advertisement of Curtis Publishing Co.

OVER TWO THOUSAND VISITORS A DAY

Cooper Explains Reason for Remarkable Average of Boston Callers.

During L. T. Cooper's recent stay in Boston, it is estimated that sixty-five thousand people talked with him and purchased his medicine. This is an average of over two thousand a day.

His success was so phenomenal as to cause universal comment both by the public and the press. There must be a reason for this. Here is the reason given in his own words by Mr. Cooper when interviewed on the subject. He said:

"The immense numbers of people who are calling on me here in Boston is not unusual. I have had the same experience for the past two years wherever I have gone. The reason is a simple one. It is because my medicine puts the stomach in good condition. This does not sound unusual, but it is in fact the key to health. The stomach is the very foundation of life. I attribute 90 per cent. of all sickness directly to the stomach."

"Neither animals nor men can remain well with a poor digestive apparatus. Few can be sick with a diseased stomach for a long time. After taking one bottle, a tapeworm 50 feet long passed from my system. I felt better almost immediately. All my troubles disappeared as if by magic, and my improvement was rapid. I now feel entirely well, and can honestly recommend Mr. Cooper's medicine to anyone who suffers as I did."

Among Boston people who are staunch believers in Mr. Cooper's theory, is Mr. Frank D. Brown, of 57 Bloomingdale street, Chelsea, Mass. He says:

"For five years I have sought relief for indigestion, stomach trouble and dyspepsia, spending nearly all my wages with doctors and obtaining no results. I had dull pains across my back, radiating to the shoulders. I had splitting headaches, which nothing seemed to cure. There was a gnawing and rumbling in my stomach and bowels. I was troubled with vertigo and dizziness, and at times almost overcome by drowsiness."

"I felt tired and worn out all the time, my sleep was not refreshing, and I would get up in the morning feeling as weary as when I went to bed. My appetite was variable—ravenous at times, then again nauseated at the sight of food. Sometimes my face was pale, at other times flushed. I was constipated and bilious, and had catarrhal affection in nose and throat, which caused me to hawk and spit a great deal, especially in the morning. I heard so much of the Cooper remedies that I decided to try them. After taking one bottle, a tapeworm 50 feet long passed from my system. I felt better almost immediately. All my troubles disappeared as if by magic, and my improvement was rapid. I now feel entirely well, and can honestly recommend Mr. Cooper's medicine to anyone who suffers as I did."

The Most Remarkable Clock in America.
(From Technical World Magazine.)

Franz Bohacek, an eccentric German, has constructed in the southwestern part of Chicago, the most remarkable clock in America. It is not the largest, but the most unique in many respects. Franz Bohacek has been 20 years building this wonderful clock. He is poor and has done the work entirely himself, after a hard day's work as an expert watch repairer.

Long ago, in Patzau, Bohacek had grown impatient with ordinary ways of measuring time. He was told how a real year consists of 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes and 46 seconds; that the year is measured by ordinary clocks is so much shorter than this that the time they lose must be swallowed up in a big gulp once in every four years as, "leap year." The thought of this lost time became an incentive to build a clock which should be the most accurate clock he could devise, and at the same time should rival the varied wonders of the clocks built in the old days when clock makers were craftsmen and something more than mere mechanics. Accordingly when he had established himself and family in Chicago he set to work. As the clock grew, in size Bohacek's own ideas grew, and dial after dial was added, with all the additional mechanism necessary to its operation. Soon the "little house" in which the work started became too small. One window after another sacrificed to boarded additions, but in the semi-dark Bohacek toiled on. Eight feet, 10 feet, the clock face arose. The roof must be raised to make space. A partition must be removed. Finally the family itself was crowded back into the little back rooms at the rear and the big clock occupied the house. The clock itself is two stories high, with weights which reach down another story. These weights are so heavy they have to be wound up by two windlasses. The clock has several dials, one conforming to popular conception and giving the standard time of 24 hours to the day. Another the accurate time. Another is a complete diurnal circuit of 24 hours, so that here one sees at a glance how many hours have passed since midnight. The third dial has three series of numbers and three hands. From it one may know the day of the week, of the month and the month of the year. Another six feet in diameter, represents the solar system, another the signs of the Zodiac. In the center of the clock appear every so often one of the presidents of the United States. These are only a few of the novelties which are introduced into this clock, entirely constructed by one man's hands. It consists of over 1000 intricate parts and is the work of a genius.

Speeches are daily made in congress for this home consumption.

While many of the publications received by Mr. Davenport's constituents were not found useful, they were inclined to credit him with good intentions. But unfortunately for the Oklahoma state, a number of Washington city telephone directories have become mixed with his congressional documents and were scattered broadcast over his district. Now his people are demanding an explanation. They cannot understand what possible interest Mr. Davenport can conceive they may have in the Washington telephone directory.

Roads Rolled by Gas Power.
The accompanying photograph shows the construction method of operation of a new type of English motor rolled designed for use with water ballast. This device is used for rolling the training grounds of the Klugefelds Racing Stud and also for race courses and road work. It is utilized by the war department for making granite military roads and for asphalt. For heavy road and street work a machine of seven tons weight empty and eight when filled, is used. The back roller is of hard cast metal and is filled with water, and all the weight of the water is on the large rolling cylinder. For use on tar macadam, the roller machine weighs five tons, empty.

A Mrs. Rause of Whitewater learned the system and in speaking of it to a friend was asked to make a waist. Mrs. Rause took the measurements and without fitting or trying on sent the waist complete to her friend who lived in Burlington, Wis. She received the following letter in reply:

My Dear Mrs. Rause: Received the waist and it is lovely; fits just fine; never saw anything nicer made. Please send me your bill the next time you write as I wish to pay you the same as any customer. Business before friendship, you know.

Snow Systems are the only ones in which the art of designing has been reduced to a scientific basis and can be mastered by the inexperienced amateur. Take a course now and save more than the cost by doing your spring sewing in the classroom.
